SCHOOL

Atomi High School is a private girls' school comprising a three-year middle school and a three-year comprehensive senior high school. Approximately 1,600 students are currently enrolled in grades seven through twelve. The school opened in 1875 as the first girls' school in Tokyo. Over the long history, the school has graduated more than twenty-thousand students.

Students come from adjacent prefectures of Saitama, Chiba, Kanagawa and Ibaraki as well as from Tokyo. With numerous prestigious educational institutions at all school levels nearby, the area is known as one of Japan's most leading educational districts.

CURRICULUM

The academic year (AY) starts in April and ends in March. The academic program is organized on a traditional schedule. All students up to grade eleven take 34 classes per week with each class 50 minutes in length. Seniors choose to take 30 to 34 classes according to their needs. Classes are streamed for most courses in English and math and some in Japanese.
